Everyone has within them something that is a unique expression of Source consciousness. This unique energy signature can manifest itself in an endless number of ways. The Source energy may find the 3D interface you call your body as being perfect for expressing its energy through singing, dancing, painting, writing, crafting, engineering, or something else. As Rumi says, “Respond to every call that excites your spirit.”

When we are all children, we quickly gravitate towards expressing Source consciousness in the way we enjoy the most. Unfortunately, schools are often killers of joy. They force children to focus their energy on things they have no interest in, and are not essential to know in order to navigate the 3D matrix. In fact, a growing number of schools are eliminating anything that involves the right-brained creative processes of Source expression, like music and art. This severely limits the extraordinary expressions of Source consciousness that we can all benefit from and enjoy here on Spaceship Earth.

As Ralph Waldo Emerson said, “Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm.” This is very true. Enthusiasm is another word to describe there being energy behind a creative action. If there is no enthusiasm behind an action, it will be akin to painting with gray instead of all of the colors of the rainbow. The end result will be a shadow of what it could be. Inspiration and enthusiasm are signs that we have tapped into our Zone of Genius. They show us that we will be doing something that comes more naturally to us, as fractal consciousness expressions of the Source.

How do you unlock the greatness already within you? You simply need to see what is already there. What sparks joy in you? What would you be doing with your days if money was out of the equation and your physical needs were being met? Is there something you have this inner urge to do? If so, those are all indicators that you have uncovered how Source consciousness can express itself the easiest through you.

As much as you should also look to your childhood and see what activities and subjects you immediately gravitated to like a magnet, consider being open to change as well. We are all evolving all of the time. What may have been something we enjoyed as children no longer applies because we now love something similar, but a more advanced version of it. On the other hand, maybe we enjoyed something but weren't allowed to, or didn't have the means to, pursue it. Do an inventory of your interests, both past and present, and see what you discover.

You can also take a look at what you spend the most money on. It could be a good indicator that it is related to your greatness. It could be a guiding roadmap to discovering where you feel the most motivated to put your energy.

One more way to discover and unlock the greatness within you is to take different types of "personality" tests. If you want to go down a more psychological route, then taking the Meyers-Briggs Type Indicator can reveal to you the patterns within your complex personality. You can also get a Human Design chart and report done for you that can provide keen insights. There is also an opportunity for you to receive your Gene Keys hologenetic profile. All of these can help you become clearer on what your greatness is.

You deserve to unlock your greatness and share it with the world. It is there, within you. All you need to do is open the door and walk through the doorway of possibilities.
